"The temple bell echoes the impermanence of all things
The colors of the flowers testify to the truth that those who flourish must decay Pride lasts but a little while like a dream
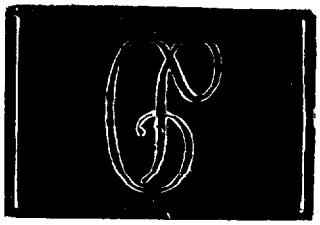
in a spring night
Before long the mighty are cast down
And are as dust before the wind."

Nov 27, '69

Dear Josh:

Thank you for your greeting. We feel that Nature (and Stockholm) are very kind to send this lovely surprise ~~for~~ for a season in our lives where we can relax and enjoy it

Cordially Max D.

J. Lederberg
Genetics Department
Stanford University
Stanford, California


DELBRUCK