February 15, 1952

Dr. B. A. Waisbren
Dept. Internal Medicine
Marquette University
208 E. Wisconsin Ave.,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Dr. Waisbren:

The deFonbrune micromanipulator is certainly satisfactory for isolating single bacteria. We will be glad to show you our technique with it. For most purposes, however, a far less expensive instrument should suffice. I will be glad to talk to you about it if you care to visit.

Sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
Associate Professor of Genetics