56 Curzon St, W1, London,
July 13, 1944
(My APO address is ~~[illegible]~~ perhaps best.)

Dear Peggy,

It is after 10 but still daylight and quiet. I finally rented a small flat with modern facilities, many of which I have not used. Perhaps I should have paid more attention to your suggestion about your flat.

Your letter of June 28 and one that came the same day from your Mother were my first word from home. They were much appreciated. It is always touching to hear that the children remember their grandfather and ~~talk~~ about him. Give them my love and tell Margaret a giant story for me.

I am always running into people who ask after you. My two daughters have certainly prepared the way for me.

I am lasting fine again at the Athenaeum Club, sometimes with Dr. O'Brien, and eating the other meals in restaurants except the numerous luncheons and dinners ~~with~~ as guests of hospitable friends. Ruth's Lt. General gave one dinner in my honor and to-morrow I am invited to a dinner in honor of Maj. Gen. Kirk, Surgeon General of the U.S. Army.

Mr. Churchill's statement in Parliament will give you some idea of what is happening here and I may be able to tell you some tall stories when I get back. The interest is equal to that of my ~~arrival~~ stay here in '40-41, which you well remember.

Give my love to Wally and keep much for yourself.

Your Pops.