Dear Dr. Lederberg;

A year and one-half as research assistant at Carnegie Institution of Washington stimulated my interest in microbial genetics. I was very impressed with your work in this field as reported at the CSH Symposium. I am now a graduate student at Yale, and I plan to do my thesis work in this field. Though this request may be somewhat out of the ordinary, I hope that you will give it your consideration. Rather than write for each of your reprints individually, I thought that a blanket request of this type, for a copy of each of these papers would not be amiss.

I should also appreciate being placed on your mailing list for future publications pertinent to this subject.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

William L. Belser Jr.
