Thank you for your comments which I am happy to have. I may need some further help from you — the sentence you quote sounds like plain English to my poorly adapted ear — in matching the text to the audience.

Perhaps you might indicate some of the previous articles that have been most effective in this kind of translation without diluting the essential content of their arguments.

I will under no circumstances guarantee performance before a stated deadline. But I know the subject may become stale & I am starting to work on the writing.

Sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg.
