Dear Josh:

Sorry to be so slow in responding to your good letter of Nov 6.

I've been trying my best to recollect, but I find it's not easy. As one example: I know of our getting Neurospora strains ~~of~~ from Dodge but not anything like the detail my letters to Dodge show.

As for strain 299, you are correct that there were detailed records I made, but I am confident that they are now long gone. But on the facts I am confident that the account in my Recollections is correct.

You no doubt know of the newest paper of Norm Horowitz on Genetics and the Synthesis of Proteins. I enclose a copy. Right now I'm not sure of the publisher.

Please do not hesitate to prod me further if you think you can pry out some additional latent recollections.

Best regards

Bert

P.S. Why not try probing Norm Horowitz? He came with us shortly after we were in the Neurospora business.
