Personal Memo from
JOSHUA LEDERBERG

Susan Wright
10/17/92

[redacted]

Yes, of course you may quote my 1974-5 letters as requested.

I was citing your Osiris paper just last week to Marion Leopold at U/Montréal. You may hear from her.

Regulation is indeed a very blunt instrument. The requirement for all up P3 containment (K $200,000) cattle, say, a hood in a P2 lab is hampering research on multidrug resistant TB. Meanwhile how many people are walking the street with it? And I just don't know how to ensure common sense and meticulous technique, which are far more important than external surveillance, and are by no means ubiquitous.

I imagine you'll want to see "Emerging Infections", just released.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
