Dear Prof Graham

Your attribution of Aleksandrov as a naturist left me quite puzzled in the light of the evidence.

Do you have the writings to document his position on this controversy?

(As I do not have Russian first hand, I would be grateful for English translation should that be at hand.)

Sincerely,

James Crowley

Aleksandrov having blackened my name by confusing me with Shockley, all this is poetic justice!

When I was in Moscow in June, my ANSSSR colleagues reasoned me that I should pay no heed to the ravings of "philosophers".

Geneticists I met there seemed quite balanced in their views, like most geneticists here (contra Shockley, Lewontin).
