Not a loan

Jany 17 1914

Dear Alan

I think there used to be discussion as to the existence or conditions of time & space. Space seems to remain but time seems to have vanished.

As I told you originally I am not willing to put any payments in the form of loans.

no loan

Among modern crimes I place lending money and I absolve you from any obligation to repay. I did not wish to hamper you in that way. I wished to help you and not to load you with a weight. Of course you will be free to make a present to me if you want to by & by, and if it then does not worry or hurt.

Yours truly

Arthur T. Lyman
