BURNS,

OCT 4 1978

I very much enjoyed our visit and your + your colleagues' hospitality — and patience for my rambling remarks.

Really I am very much interested in industrial-academic connections and how to make them work. Did you know about the Syntex "Institute for Molecular Biology" (which preceded and was much smaller than Roche's) which Carl Djerassi and I founded — and has become qualified success in the light of its original intentions! Next time you're nearby please let's chat some more.
