Someone suggested I write this down; and I had a little problem thinking of Barth, Pollister's antecedents.

I'm guessing you and Francis had (at first order) similar experiences. (and I suspect he learned more from you than from the professors.)

How would you describe FJR's "tree"? ? Like this?

I've enjoyed Ways of Knowing!

Sorry I don't have better reprints of Nature 12/86 (yet?)

All the best,

Jim.

P.S.

That's a narrow view of preceptorship of course:

Beadle + Tatum were the main igniters of Francis' later career.

It was Barth/Pollister's own antecedents, and influence on Francis I was unfamiliar with.
