My talk with Bill Graham DEC 21 1987

When I mentioned that DZR "a former deputy to Jerry Wiesner" would staff the study, Bill expressed some alarm that the Commission would be merely a vendetta against Reagan — he cited Wiesner's Cosmos Club talk as an example, one he held was very badly informed, and "Wiesner never took the trouble to talk to me and find out how my office really runs!" He went on to muse that perhaps OSTP should mount a study on how charitable foundations spend their money!

I responded that there had been many such investigations! Did he really think it was out of tune for Carnegie to go into S&P? After some soothing on my part, he accepted that a constructive and objective study might do some good. But he is obviously very leery about it!

I assured him I would take no part in a "vendetta"; and I think he trusts that. He should also not confuse DZR with Jerry Wiesner.

We should remember to post Graham with formal announcement, terms of reference, etc., after our Bd. mtg; and before it's in the press.

Shortly thereafter, I hope DZR can see Graham privately, or with me, and with DAH, Bill, or ...
