Dear Professor Lederberg,

A few months ago I mailed you three draft manuscripts with a joint letter. Since that time I do not know whether you received them or not. My inquires to the Postal Service about the possible fate of this mail remained without an answer. Thus, I have a strong suspicion that it has been lost.

Nevertheless, before mailing the draft manuscripts again I would like to be sure that you have not received them. If so, could it be sent to you on a floppy-disk? (I use a Microsoft Word 5.00 version program.)

I have also recently realized that you are in the Steering Committee of the Conference to be held in Trieste 2-6 October 1992, in which probably I can participate. Will you be coming to Trieste by that occasion? It would be an outstanding opportunity for me to present my data to you directly. Or, please remember that you have a pending invitation from the Hungarian Academy of Sciences to be our guest in Hungary. Could you not include into your program also to visit our Center in Szeged?

I am looking forward to get your answer at your convenience.

Sincerely yours

Lajos Alföldi
