Dear Professor Lederberg:

I am very sorry that other commitments will make it impossible for you to attend the October 22nd Conference in New York City on the population crisis. Affirmative responses have come in from so many concerned American leaders that I am enormously encouraged as to the ultimate success of our conference.

As one who fully endorses our work, we would like to ask if you have any objection to our listing your name as one of the Convenors of the conference. Several of our supporters, although unable to be present at the conference, wish to be listed as Convenors.* If I do not hear to the contrary, I will assume that this is also your wish.

Sincerely,

Cass Canfield
