

WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY
CLEVELAND 6, OHIO

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DEPARTMENT OF MICROBIOLOGY

September 16, 1952

Dr. Joshua Lederberg
Department of Genetics
University of Wisconsin
Madison 6, Wisconsin

Dear Dr. Lederberg:

In keeping our departmental stock culture collection, we have, in general, lyophilized our cultures and gone through all the attendant fuss and bother. I understand that you have been preserving most of your cultures and, particularly, the various mutants and segregants that you have on silicagel. I should imagine that this is a much simpler procedure where applicable and I wonder if you would be willing to give us details on the method as you use it. Also we'd appreciate any information you have as to the types of organisms with which this method has been used.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

J. O. Lampen

JOL: jm

CIRCULAR