(HIV) AIDS virus in lung cells?

Has anyone looked into this?

You & Gallo are handy for a collaboration.

We may have to face the possibility of aerosol transmission from AIDS-patients who have chronic bronchitis, pneumonia.

You could certainly get at the most concentrated potential sources...and if you were getting positive readings, then track the aerosolization up the bronchial tree.

HIV could easily, why doubt that AIDS could be instilled into a lung? Or can you give some rationality to that point?
