

January Eleventh
1 9 4 5

Edgar B. Carter
Associate Director of Research
Abbott Laboratories
North Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Carter;

Your article, PROLOGUE TO BLOOD PLASMA, in the December edition of WHAT'S NEW, is generous, accurate and extremely well-done. I am happy that Scudder and I were written up as a team for so it was that we did our work. My friends, of course, were extremely pleased and many folks whom I did not know have called to tell me of the article. Our men in medicine are happy that you saw fit to run this article and feel a sense of gratitude to the Abbott Laboratories.

The sketches by Kilby I found very interesting, the whole volume one well worth saving.

I have had several requests for a copy, which, of course, I could not fulfill. Is it possible that I might obtain about a dozen extra copies of this particular number or, if this is not possible, could I have made through your printer reprints of the article itself?

Again, many thanks.

Very sincerely yours,

Charles R. Drew, M. D.
Head
Department of Surgery

CRD:ps