March 1st, April 1872

Mr. William O'Brien during the eighteen months that he was a student in the Montreal General Hospital had unusual opportunities of studying human anatomy, of which he availed himself most assiduously. He performed a large number of post-mortem examinations, and managed a large number of morbid specimens.
In memoriam dem demonstrat and there with the report of the Cadaver dissection with the news arrived which was accordingly con-

Prof. Henry Thrailler
of Medicine to Yale College