FROM IRVINE H. PAGE, M.D.
Editor Emeritus

Dear Ed:

It has taken a long time for this opportunity to occur. My task is quite simple — I want you to know that after all these years I consider you among the "great" — call yourself a National Treasure. Nowadays we don't have many of them and that is why medicine and science are so dull. Truths, big models and great minds are the reward, and in the end only the good/opportune ones are preserved. Since there are so few of you, it won't be easy to choose among and to so genuine with the others as you have been with your best friends. We should be

Sincerely,
